		to recommend that you hire a professional for your home and business roofing needs. The question of whether or not a roof needs repair is a basic process. The property owner must determine if the roof requires repair or complete replacement. Additionally, your roof must be maintained properly and on a regular basis. The more informed you are about your roof, the better prepared you are to save both time and money. <ul style="list-style-type: none">• [H4] The end of winter or after severe weather is the best time to inspect your roof for damage. A common sign of damage to the roof is a dark spot on interior ceilings. Such damage not only looks unappealing, but can be unsafe over time. If the roof is still under a warranty, it is a smart decision to make even the most expensive repairs. However if you must pay for the job yourself it is often more cost-efficient to replace the entire roof.• [H4] The recommendation for a roof that is more than one-third damaged is replacement. A roof is in need of replacement when indicators are visible such as moderate interior leaking, blistering interior walls and broken or decaying tiles or slates. If you receive a higher energy bill, you could need a complete roofing job as well. Complete replacement depends on good materials and ones that are appropriate for the weather. If inappropriate materials were used to build your roof, you may want to consider replacement before the harsh weather arrives.• [H4] Keep your home safe and beautiful with regular maintenance to your roof. Maintenance includes annual roof inspections, which can help reduce the cost of roofing services. Streaks of discolouration will alert you to the evidence of fungus, mould or algae problems. Keep trees and any foliage far enough from the roof to avoid clogging gutters and causing wind damage. Regular inspections will ensure that the integrity of your roof is not unnecessarily compromised.
