		health, support economic and recreational activities, and provide healthy habitat for fish, plants, and wildlife.. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • [H5] Federally listed as threatened in 1990, Northern spotted owls are non-migratory. They prefer old-growth forests, particularly Douglas fir forests, that take 150 to 200 years to mature. These types of forests have high canopy layers, snags (standing dead trees), and open spaces for flying underneath and between trees. • [H5] Marbled murrelets spend the majority of their lives on the ocean, but come inland to nest. They generally nest in old-growth forests. These forests are located close enough to the marine environment for the birds to fly to and from nest sites. Nests have been found inland from the coast up to a distance of 50 miles in Washington State. The amount of suitable habitat has continued to decline throughout the range of the marbled murrelet, primarily due to commercial timber harvest. • [H5] Dedicated friend and ally of Olympic forests and wetlands • [H6] You can help the Olympic Forest Coalition save and protect forests and aquatic ecosystems on the Olympic Peninsula. • [H6] All posts & categories

Optimization

		Your website does not have an XML sitemap - this can be problematic. A sitemap lists URLs that are available for crawling and can include additional information like your site's latest updates, frequency of changes and importance of the URLs. This allows search engines to crawl the site more intelligently.
